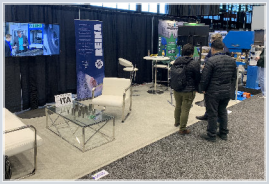
Reika is back on the US market!

North America's largest trade fair for metalworking took place again this year in Chicago at McCormick Place with over 1,700 exhibitors and once more, REIKA was participating in the show. Our Managing Director, Hans-Jörg Braun, did not miss the chance to show up himself on the Reika stand at Fabtech.



Finally, Braun and Kemple say that Fabtech 2019 was once more allover a big success. New projects and orders expected in the near future are the result and left REIKA looking into a positive year 2020. Many thanks again to all visitors and for the good discussions!

Together with our representative in the US, Joseph Kemple from Heiko Machine, the two spent four successful days filled with good discussions, meeting customers and making new contacts.

Special attention was paid to the impressive exhibition of various new technologies. From automation to robotics to tube production it was all there and both left with a head full of new impressions and ideas. The new developed Reika processing systems for copper tubes also attracted many visitors, especially the fitting manufacturers. A perfect basis for future innovative and customer focused projects. Networking was also a big topic of this year's participation at Fabtech.
